Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Tuesday 23 Nov 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Most dry, but some showers, mainly in northwest. East brightest.

Today:
Mostly dry with only a few light showers cropping up, mainly confined to the Northwest Highlands and Islands. Rather cloudy with best of the limited brighter spells appearing around the eastern coastal districts. Westerly winds occasionally strong in north.

Tonight:
Majority dry and clear for the evening. Southwest winds strengthening overnight as band of showery rain spreads from northwest, reaching all, but clearing in northwest to blustery showers towards dawn.

Wednesday:
Showery band of rain in east and south initially. Otherwise sunshine and showers, with outbreaks frequent in far north, but few reaching Central Belt and southwards. Gales later in north.

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:
Wintry showers Thursday, mainly focused in north. Friday and Saturday very unsettled with severe gales, perhaps storms in Northwest, and periods of rain, turning wintry to quite low levels.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.